

A New Program Is in Development

Substance Use Intensive Outpatient Program (IOP)
for Teens and Young Adults

Building More Pathways to Support

Pathways Behavioral Health is working to establish an Intensive Outpatient Program (IOP) focused on substance use challenges among teens and young adults. This planned program reflects our commitment to expanding access to supportive behavioral health services for young people and their families.

What We Hope to Offer

The proposed program is intended to provide structured, supportive treatment that helps participants better understand substance use, develop healthier coping strategies, strengthen decision-making skills, and work toward personal recovery goals.

As the program is developed, we are exploring services and approaches appropriate for adolescents and young adults, with an emphasis on individualized needs, family support when appropriate, and ongoing progress.

Program Status

This program is currently in development and is not yet accepting enrollment. Details about eligibility, services, schedules, location, and the anticipated launch will be shared when they are finalized.
